Dear Board Members,

I will get to the point regarding Plan B on Pescadero Rd.

I am in the process of getting bids on lining the existing sewer in Pescadero Canyon. Beside being environmentally superior to moving the line, with the associated ongoing impacts involving repairs Etc., in the long run this method of solving the problem may well be the least expensive of all alternatives.

I know there is substantial opposition to moving the line into Pescadero Road, which likely will result in long legal challenges. I mention this not as a threat but a reality that can be avoided. Plan A is feasible and economical, especially if one considers the upkeep issues and costs associated with electrical upgrades, power outages, and pump repairs. I also believe the “environmental impact” argument is unsupported in light of the ongoing issues involving the pumps Etc.

Please consider the long term consequences of Plan B. I strongly suggest Plan A to be the selected option.

Sincerely,

Don Ryan
